Department of Rehabilitation Medicine

The Department of Rehabilitation Medicine at the College of Physicians & Surgeons was established in 1952. We have strong clinical programs in neurologic, musculoskeletal, and cardiopulmonary rehabilitation for both inpatients and outpatients of all ages, as well as ongoing research and educational activities. The department has been included in U.S. News & World Reports Best Rehabilitation Hospitals annually since 2002.

Our CARF (Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities) accredited William Randolph Hearst Inpatient Rehabilitation Unit is located in the Milstein Hospital Building . This 16-bed inpatient unit offers comprehensive services including rehabilitation nursing, occupational therapy, physical therapy, therapeutic recreation, speech therapy, and social work services. The unit continually meets or exceeds all regional and national benchmarks as per the statistics from the Uniform Data System for Medical Rehabilitation.

Inpatient consultation services include neurology and neurosurgery, medical and surgical, pediatric, orthopedic, cardiopulmonary rehabilitation and an Allen Pavilion consultation service.

Our outpatient rehabilitation services include the care of patients with back pain, musculoskeletal and sports disorders, stroke, spinal cord injuries, amputation, neuromuscular and movement disorders, and pediatric disabilities. Rehabilitation Medicine also participates with Neurology in offering electromyography and nerve conduction studies.
